

QA Engineer

Also advertise as Software Test Engineer

The Role

You'll be working with an established software development team on exciting projects delivering great value to doctors, nurses, patients and carers within UK primary care.

You'll work closely within an Agile team to ensure effective test coverage of all software developed. Along with exploratory testing of new features there's the opportunity to help us improve our workflow through the introduction of new practices and the application of automated testing.

You'll be an advocate for quality in all aspects of software development and be involved in defining the acceptance criteria for new features and responsible for ensuring features built adhere to that criteria.

You'll be based in the UK and, along with the rest of the team, currently working remotely.

About Us

The team at Engage Health have been delivering solutions for primary care for over 20 years. Our latest innovations help doctors and their 3.5 million patients connect through online digital questionnaires and video. Our HQ is in North Norfolk but, like many businesses in 2020, our team is now working remotely.

Our values at Engage Health were created by our people, they really are a true reflection to the commitment and the passion each and everyone of us have for the service and solutions we provide.

The Ideal Candidate

You will:

- Have a proven track record in software testing spanning a minimum of 3 years
- Care deeply about the solutions you test and the customers that rely upon them
- Have a strong background in manual and automated test techniques
- Experience of testing web, mobile and desktop applications

- Demonstrate a can-do, positive attitude and proactive approach to problem solving

Bonus points for:

- Experience with volume, performance & security testing
- A knowledge of the healthcare sector
- Familiarity with agile environments
- Technical knowledge of scripting languages (e.g. Javascript), SQL, Json and XML
- Jira, X-ray, BrowserStack, Selenium, Protractor

Benefits

In addition to competitive salaries, Engage Health offers:

- A great team to work with
- 23 days holiday, escalating with service
- Contributory pension scheme
- Birthday? Lucky you, have another day off on us!
- Hack-time to spend on learning and professional development
- Cycle scheme
